Fall Newsletter

HELLO AUTUMN

Wow! Autumn is here and so is homecoming and our fall school musical! Please see the inserts.

Parents we need your help! Please do not park in the bus loading zone when dropping off or picking up. By law our buses are not allowed to back up at any time in a drop off and pick up zone. Remember our student's safety comes first! Thank you for your support and help.

FYI: We are working on transitioning to making our bus loading and unloading zone, which is in front of the elementary, during sporting events designated for visitor buses only. Parking lots for spectators will be the commons and the north side of the industrial arts building.

Senior Citizens, remember we have hot lunch onsite in our cafeteria for you to participate in should you wish to join us on Tuesdays. Lunchtime begins at 10:45 AM. It is our way of creating interactions with our community and students and letting our seniors know how much they are appreciated. There is no charge at this time!

Shout Outs:

- Congratulations to Jaidyn Alvstad for serving a shut-out match at the Culbertson junior varsity volleyball game!

Hello Fourth Grade Families and Community!

Fourth grade has been trucking right along. We have just finished two units, one in Math and the other in Reading. In Math, we covered how to solve math problems using many different methods. WE discovered that you can solve problems by drawing a picture, making arrays, writing an equation, and making a ratio table. In Reading, we wrapped up a unit all about scientists and how they work. One of the stories that we read was called Mary Anning: The Girl Who Cracked Open the World. Mary Anning was a leading paleontologist in England who had very humble beginnings and overcame them. To wrap up the reading unit, students were given a mystery person that they had to research, give clues, then present to the class and listen to guesses. Looking forward to October, for math, we will be working on how to discover an area of a shape. In reading, we will be reading a new set of books all about the body, which lines up perfectly with Halloween. Happy Halloween!

Fifth and Sixth Grade

We are off to a great start here in fifth and sixth grade. In fifth grade we have been working on finding area and volume. Now, we are moving on to fractions. In reading, we are reading a novel called "Night of the Spadefoot Toads", and working on point of view. We are also learning the states and capitals in social studies. In science, we are working on learning the scientific method.

Sixth graders have the opportunity to work with some of the high school teachers this year. They are rotating for math, science, and social studies. In reading, we are reading a novel called "The Egypt Game", where we are also working on point of view and how the author builds suspense to create a mystery. In addition to that, we are also working on writing mysteries of our own. I am looking forward to a wonderful year with these wonderful kids.

Math Department

The school year is already whizzing by and the students have been busy in the Math room! We are already finishing the beginning of the year refresher chapters and are delving into some great new information. The students are studying hard and proving they are always up to the newest challenges. Just a reminder to both students and parents, corrections are especially important in math; enough so, that I offer a percentage back at the end of each semester for completing all your corrections. So, make sure that your students are getting those corrections completed and turned in so that they do not miss the extra credit opportunity.

From the Art Studio Fall 2022

Hello everyone! This school year is moving forward with all students learning a wide variety of art techniques and vocabulary. This year, my goals in the art room are to incorporate more 21st century skills and work on writing skills.

This year, thanks to last year's Mid-Rivers Technology grant, we are using the new computer and scanner to build online portfolios for all k-12 students! We are using the site Artsonia to host their artwork. Many students have been discovering their past projects from 2020 that were submitted for the spring art show that year. I will continue to use this online platform moving forward. So, parents, if you have not given your child permission for hosting, please do so! I can see the artwork and you can see the artwork, but no one else can. I would love to be able to share the students' online artwork with the community, I just need your permission to do so!

Another goal is working on vocabulary development and usage. Art has a wide array of words that can be used and to encourage students to be better writers and readers, this year's Spring Extravaganza theme is a book theme. Each grade or student will be making a book to be displayed to read in the commons this spring. If you have a book that you have written or have been wanting to write, you're welcome to display a copy during the spring extravaganza as well!
